

WAR HAS TAUGHT VALUE OF THRIFT

People Have Learned How Senseless and Unnecessary
Common Practices Are.

RETURN TO SIMPLE LIFE

Those Not Willing to Deprive Themselves of Some Comforts Ungrateful for What Boys "Over There"
Are Doing for Us.

By JAMES W. GERARD,
Former Ambassador to Germany.

In the days before the war it often seemed to me that the immigrant who came here with practically nothing and who left an education and often a competence to his children lived as all men should live. He worked hard and well and saved his money. Then as his circumstances permitted he placed his family in comfortable surroundings. Often he got hold of a little piece of ground and raised a part of his food supply. Such men as these told me often that American life presented very few difficulties to a man who wanted to become wealthy through his own efforts.

Of course these people did not have the things that many of their neighbors thought vitally necessary. There was no show, no ostentation, nothing merely to impress their associates and neighbors. And after all man is a simple being. His wants are few, once he gets out of an artificial point of view.

Return to Simple Living.

Since the war has come with its necessity of curtailed expenditure many persons and families are approaching the state of simple living. They are being vastly benefited. A mental and spiritual betterment comes with simple living and thinking. There is also a great gain in resource. No man need ever fear that he will become miserly through the practice of thrift. Thrift simply means using the right things for the right purpose and putting aside the surplus.

If the war has done nothing else it has at least taught to many persons the value of thrift. The human mind is prone to attach labels to things. Because a thing is done it is done more and more. Once the individual gives thought to life and living he sees how senseless and unnecessary are some of the practices to which he thought he was committed for the rest of his life. Too many people in America are living beyond their means in order to vie with some richer neighbor. Why risk your children's future and education through a silly imitation induced by false pride?

To do anything well is a fine training for any man or woman. The practice of thrift is only the utilizing in the most scientific and exact ways of an individual's resources. It is character building and makes of man almost the master of his destiny.

Prove Superiority to Hun.

The situation of the world at the present time says to civilized man: Prove that you are fitted to survive the Hun; prove that you are superior to the Hun; prove that you are worthy of being preserved. For a wasteful use of materials at the present time is a crime against civilization. The war cannot be won unless the nation and the individual practice the most exact thrift. If we as a race cannot do this we are not fit to be the dominant factors in the world. We can and we will. The Hun and the state of affairs brought about by him are a challenge to our civilization. We accept the challenge and we will win the victory.

We could not do less. Our own countrymen and our brothers in arms are living in the midst of the greatest danger abroad. They are subsisting only on the vitally necessary foods and their general situation is lacking in comforts. We will deprive ourselves of some of our own abundant comfort that they may have the necessities of life. We must not prove ungrateful for what they are doing for us. We do not wish to live in an envying comfort while they are suffering and giving their lives that we may survive.

There is for those who are rich or semirich or who merely have money and extravagant tastes another and a practical side.

Money Must Be Had.

We must have the money to carry on the war. If money does not come to the government from the country's present stock of money, then it must be created, for the war cannot stop.

Additional money means inflation and that means a fall in the worth, in the purchasing power of the dollar.

So that every one who has an income, a salary or invested capital of any kind, bonds, mortgages or other obligations of state or city or railway, should be vitally interested in practicing thrift, and thereby maintaining the value of the purchasing power of his own property.

But greatest argument of all—the spending of money now unnecessarily is shameful, even criminal.

Are we to feast while our sons and brothers die over there and by our very feasting put their success in jeopardy?

No ruler ever led people as efficiently to war as does our great president. Back him up.

POWER OF PRINTER'S INK

Nowhere has there been given a better illustration of the value of good advertising than in the campaign which just closed with the nomination of Truman H. Newberry as the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator. It is true there was a large sum of money spent to nominate Mr. Newberry, but it was spent in an open and above-board manner by taking and paying for advertising space in all the newspapers in Michigan, and therein in a business like way presenting Mr. Newberry's claims. This is far better than the underhanded and corrupt methods that have been used in the past where a candidate would slip a bunch of money into the hands of ward heelers in return for their influence.

As to the individual merits of Mr. Newberry and Henry Ford, his opponent, there is no comparison. Truman Newberry is a 100 per cent American and his sons are the same. Henry Ford has done that which will forever damn him in the eyes of every father with a son offering his life for his country's cause—he used his wealth to secure the exemption of his son from military service. It will be a hard job to convince some people that such a man is the best man for U. S. Senator at this time—Grand Lodge Independent, Aug. 30, 1918.

THE RESULT IN MICHIGAN.

The trimming administered to Mr. Henry Ford by the Republican voters of Michigan was thorough and decisive. The opposition was split between two popular men, yet Ford lost heavily.

Michigan Republicanism has proved itself worthy of its stalwart traditions. It has left no doubt of where it stands. Pacifism and anti-nationalism have been sharply rebuked.

Mr. Ford was opposed by two good men, former Governor Chase Osborn and former Secretary of the Navy Truman Newberry. Governor Osborn deserves a great deal of credit for the strenuous, courageous, and inspiring campaign of patriotism he has been making for months. He has gone through the state speaking constantly and eloquently on the issues of the day and attacking fearlessly the vicious fallacies which Ford disseminated before our entrance into the war. The loyal people of Michigan, although they have preferred Mr. Newberry at the primary, owe Governor Osborn a debt of gratitude for this exceptional service, and of this debt every loyal citizen throughout the country bears a share. Governor Osborn has been a formidable champion of loyal Americanism, and his failure to be nominated casts no shadow of discredit upon his admirable record of patriotic service.

The choice of Mr. Newberry, however, presents to the voters of Michigan another 100% American, a man of honorable public service, character, and ability. Mr. Newberry will be a representative whom Michigan may rely upon in the highest deliberative body in the land to serve her interests and the interests of the nation with devotion and intelligence. Mr. Newberry is now in the blue of the navy. It is appropriate wear for a true blue American, and Mr. Newberry will take his true blue Americanism into the senate with him.

The primary contests having closed, the final choice between Mr. Newberry, the Republican candidate, and Mr. Ford, the Democratic candidate, is now before all the people of the state of Michigan. We do not for a moment doubt the result. There is no community under the Stars and Stripes that represents red-blooded Americanism better than Michigan. Mr. Ford's pernicious activities in opposition to the attempt to put this country in a condition of self-respecting self-defense could not be forgotten or forgiven by such a people. His eleventh hour pseudo conversion to preparation after most of the damage he could do had been done could not restore him to the confidence of such a people. The common sense of such a people was bound to pierce the Ford myth and repudiate the leadership of one who followed grotesque vagaries like the peace ark. A people, thousands of whose many sons are fighting gloriously for the high faith that is in them, for the flag whose symbolism Mr. Ford seems to hold so lightly, though it has been consecrated by the blood of patriots, and for the good land we love—such a people could not stand for Ford—Chicago Tribune.

MANGUM NAMED AS HARMONIZER

Chicago—Organized efforts to harmonize the activities of the Republican party in the fall congressional elections will be in charge of John D. Mangum, chairman of the Republican state committee of Michigan.

Mangum was chosen president of the new Association of Republican State Chairmen at a quiet meeting of state leaders here at which National Chairman Will H. Hays presided. Raymond Benjamin, California, was chosen vice-president, and G. L. Tait, Maryland, secretary.

Hays remained in Chicago to discuss party affairs with other leaders.

Governor Sleeper will go to New York in the near future to personally supervise the care to be given wounded Michigan soldiers returning from overseas.

FARM BUILDINGS MADE RAT-PROOF

Large Quantities of Grain, Foodstuffs and Poultry Destroyed by Rodents.

USE CEMENT IN FOUNDATIONS

Saving in Feed and Food Products
Will More Than Repay Farmers
for Expense of Construction—Exclude Sparrows.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because of the large quantities of grain, poultry and foodstuffs destroyed by rats and mice on farms, it will pay farmers well to rat-proof their buildings, says a Farmers' Bulletin, "House Rats and Mice," recently issued by the United States department of agriculture.

Granaries, corncribs and poultry houses may be made rat-proof by a liberal use of cement in the foundations and floors; or the floors may be of wood resting upon concrete.

Inverted Pans Unsatisfactory.

The common practice of setting corncribs on posts with inverted pans at the top often fails to exclude rats, because the posts are not high enough to place the lower cracks of the structure beyond reach of the animals. As rats are excellent jumpers, the posts should be tall enough to prevent the animals from obtaining a foothold at any place within three feet of the ground. A crib built in this way, however, is not very satisfactory.

For a rat-proof crib a well-drained site should be chosen. The outer walls, laid in cement, should be sunk about 20 inches into the ground. The space within the walls should be grouted thoroughly with cement and broken stone and finished with rich concrete for a floor. Upon this the structure may be built. Even the walls of the crib may be of concrete. Corn will not mold in contact with them, provided there is a good ventilation and the roof is water-tight.

Wire Netting for Crib.

However, there are cheaper ways of excluding rats from either new or old corncribs. Rats, mice and sparrows may be kept out effectively by the use of either an inner or an outer covering of galvanized wire netting of half-inch mesh and heavy enough to resist the teeth of the rats. The netting in common use in screening cellar windows is suitable for covering or lining corncribs. As rats can climb the netting, the entire structure must be screened, or, if sparrows are not to be excluded, the wire netting may be carried up about three feet from the ground, and above this a belt of sheet metal about a foot in width may be tacked to the outside of the building.

Putting in Cement Foundation.

Complete working drawings for a practical rat-proof corncrib may be obtained from the office of public roads and rural engineering of the department.

ENEMIES TO CONTROL MOTHS

Most Effective Foes Are Callosoma
Beetle and Minute Four-Winged Wasplike Parasite.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Everything possible to introduce and encourage parasites and natural enemies of the gypsy moth and brown-tail moth is now being done by the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with the state of Massachusetts. Several natural enemies, secured from Europe and Japan since 1905 have become firmly established in this country and are assisting in bringing about the control of these species. The most effective enemies of the gypsy moth and brown-tail moth are the Callosoma beetle, a tachina fly, and a minute four-winged parasite. Two tiny parasites of the eggs of the gypsy moth also have been colonized and are valuable additions to the natural enemies of this insect. The records at the gypsy-moth laboratory at Melrose Highlands, Mass., indicate that all of the species of insect parasites mentioned have been gradually increasing in the field and that the results of their work are very noticeable in certain restricted areas.
